

I am very concerned about the possibility that you are considering changing regulations that would allow ownership of numerous broadcast and news sources by single owners. Our ability to get information from various sources is vital to all of us, and limiting the source of information would compromise that. Recently it was apparent that the information that we get from the networks that we now have is too limited, watching the BBC provides a much more balanced view. Any move to narrow ownership should be vehemently opposed.

Thank you
